THE WEEK IN THE MIMIC WORLD

A Weber-Fields Burlesque to Be Produced As the Local Casino Bill.

"THE GEEZER" IS COMMENDED

The Press of Other Cities Comments Favorably on This Production.

The Syracuse Post-Standard of recent date contained this criticism of the play "The Geezer," which opens at the Casino to-morrow night for a week's stay, the company being the same which played to-morrow night for a week's stay, the tompany being the same which played to such fine business last week:

It speaks well for the entertaining qualities of the Weber and Fields productions now being offered as a summer diversion at the Bastable Theatre, and for the popularity of the Louis De-Lange Company interpreting them, that with the temperature in the cightles "The Geozer" was able not only to attract but to interest and amuse a large rudience last evening.

The tuneful music, which is a feature of "The Geozer" as it was of its prototype, "The Geisha," the picturesque costumes, prætty ensemble effects and amusing comedy united to make the audence forget the heat and pass a comfortable and enjoyable evening.

Except in its Oriental environments and effects, "The Geozer," makes no attempt to follow "The Geisha." Its plot deals with the successful efforts of a New York newspaper woman to foil the plans of an Oriental potentiate to add several wives to his harem. It hits oif several events which occupied public attention at the time the piece held the boards at Weber and Fields's Music Hall, including the visits to this country of Li Hung Chang. Prince Henry and Sir Thomas Lipton.

There is more real music in the songs

Meber and Fields with a country of Li Hung Chang, Prince Henry and Sir Thomas Lipton.

There is more real music in the songs and choruses of "The Geezer" than the other Weber and Fields plays which have been produced at the Basiable, and last night, in spite of the sheat, they were given with a snap and vim which made them truly enloyable.

Miss Rose La Harte looked very fetching in her rich Oriental costume, and her two solos, "The Moonlight Serenade" and "The Study of Eyes," were received with the pleasure which her numbers always give the audience.

Ted T. Burns as a tramp shambled about the stage with a funny little hitch, which immediately caught the audience. His first song, "Cluck, Cluck, Cluck," was followed by repeated encores, and the parody of various airs in the second act was not less amusing.

Walter Clifford had a congenial role as Sir Thomas Lipton. He had a pretty song in the first act, in which the chorus assisted, and a part in the octet, "What Would His Lordship Say," where Miss Carr and Miss Elden had an exceptionally attractive dance.

The other characters fell naturally into their new roles. Arthur Whitelaw was a Li Hung Chang with a distinctly Irish brogue, and Bob Harris retained his stubby chin whiskers and added a Chinese "pigtall." Charles Halton was not so easily recognized as the wandering minstrel.

Fine Barn in Page County Burned By Lightning.

By Lightning.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LURAY, VA., July 29.—During a several electric storm which passed over the northern and eastern portions of Page county at a late hour this afternoon, lightning struck the barn belonging to David L. Kibler, near Big Spring, in Springfield District, totally destroying it, with a large amount of growender and his entire wheat crop and forming implements. A horse nearby was killed. In the Kimball section, about five miles from Luray, great damage is reported to have been done by the downpour of rain, adding damage to the havoc already wrought by storms in that county this summer.

FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL,

WILLIAM A. ANDERSON, THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE.

As the names of those of Virginia's sons, who are candidates for office at the hands of Virginia's sovereign voters, pass us in review, there is one, the honorable, patriotic, and splendid official record of whom forces us to linger and regard the bearer with pride and admiration. The mame to which I refer is that of William A. Anderson, the present Attorney-General of Virginia-maimed in body, but brilliant in mind; a fearless champion of the right and just, whether the occasion arises in war or in peace, whather defending the honor of his State before the beiching cannon, or battling for her interests in the courts of the land. The people of Virginia are proud to honor with their votes the man in whom are combined the virtues of patriotism, procumined the virtues of patriotism, procuments of tearning, unswerving adherence to duty, and modesty almost to the degree of fault.

Let us briefly contemplate his record:

In Time of War.

In Time of War.

In Time of War.

He sealed his devotion to a loved, though lost cause, with his blood—his shattered limb is his present badge of brayery. The activity of his body he sacrificed to his country: The activity of his well and carefully trained mind is now a bulwark of defense to his State. To his record as a warrior, let the historian bear fuller testimony, as it is more my purpose here to emphasize his services as an official in civil life, and to point out the value of retaining him in that, office which he has filled with such credit to himself and so greatly to the benefit of his State.

As Attorney-General.

As Attorney-General.

It is doubtful if he has had an equal—he certainly has had no superior in Virginia. It is universally conceded that he has made one of the ablest Attorney-Generals this State has ever had. He has gained greater and more important legal vic-teries than anyone who ever before held the office.

When the work of our Constitutional When the work of our Constitutional Convention (dissolving the last ovil memory of the days of Underwood) was arraigned, and our State was impeached in the highest court of the land, it was William A. Anderson who resolutely defended her rights, and by his untiring efforts and guided by his splendid legal mind, our new Constitution, survived the attack of all its foes, and remains now a blessing to the Old Dominion.

When the negroes fired with hate and indignation against the white race, and egged on by a talented, but apostate son who, for personal gain and to gratify malignant hostility, was willing to light the torch of the "midnight incendiary" and plunge our State into the throes of a dreadful revolution, who stayed the sacriligeous hand? Men of Virginia, read the records of the Suprema Court of the United States of America. You will find there the name of William A. United States, about $30,660 was paid into the State tréasury, and a sum over hair as large secured to be paid annually for the future. The credit for this is undoubtedly his.

The civil cases which he has argued and won in the Supreme Court of the State and of the United States have involved interests to the State which are worth millions of dollars—indeed, they cannot be estimated in money.

Three cases involving our new Constitution yet remain to be decided. Remember that it is Anderson who hetped to win those which have already come

A Champion of the Free Schools. His zeal and devotion to the free school system of Virginia has been second to none. From the lowest to the highest teacher in the land, all land him for his teacher in the land, all land num for his noble work in the cause of education. He has worked hard and faithfully to secure the best school books at the lowest cost, in order to aid the boys and girls of the Commonwealth. He favors the single list, but is opposed to the fre-quent and unnecessary changes in school books, which have been the bane of our pooks, which have been the bane of our school system. Vain will be the efforts to deprive him of honors due for his stand in this essential matter.

Good Roads and Corporations.

He has always favored the improvement of our public roads and highways He has, in public and in private, favored he abolition of odlous rebates on railroad freights, and more than once has warned the people against the increasing danger of corporate wealth. On this question, there is no suspicion of narrow-mindedness, for, while he would protest mindedness, for, while he would protect the just and proper rights of all classes, but the many years been recognized. the just and proper rights of an elasses, he has for many years been recognized as the champion of the rights of the latoring man; and, while he recognizes the fact that the poor stand more in need of the protection of the law than the rich, yet he believes in using the power of the law for the protection of the law to the power of the law for the protection of the law that the power of the law for the protection of the law that the power of the law for the protection of all. He is not the enemy of lawful cororations, conducting a legitimate busporations, conducting a legitimate business-knowing that greater results and greater prosperity can be obtained by such aggregations of capital than is possible by individual effort.

He holds that, as an indispensable necessity, the State has the right to prescribe and regulate the freight rates of all railways within its borders, but that this power should be exercised with great care caution and tustice.

this power should be exercised with great care, caution and justice.

As a remedy for the dangerous growth of corporate and individual wealth, he be-lieves in a Federal income tax, and re-gards it as one of the cardinal doctrines of the Democratic party.

state to the effect that the Department of Justice had two special agents in the Western North Garolina District investigating rumors of wholesale violations of the revenue laws and a collusion with blockaders on the part of revenue officials. Mr. Holton admitted that there was something in the story, and stated that the two detectives have been in Wilkes county for several weeks. They have secured evidence which promises sensational developments when it is made public in the Federal courts.

News comes from Wilkes that the agents have discovered that a terrible state of affairs exists in that county, and that a shake-up in revenue circles is promised, besides many indictments against both blockaders and officeholders. The editor of the Wilkesbero Chronicle a few months ago published serious charges against certain revenue officers, for which he was assaulted and beat up by an officer for refusing to give the

Report By Counties of Collections From Non-Residents-Other

Details.

The mention of game causes a vast army to spring to activity, both in preparation for field sports and a general interest in the subject of game protection. Unfortunately Virginia is without a department of game; therefore, if statistics are collected they must gathered by some person deeply interested in the subject of game.

The Virginia Game Protective Association, through its secretary, Major L. T. Christian, has gotten information from the clorks of the several counties in the State, from which the following information is compiled as to wardens, etc. The non-resident license tax is $10.

Following is a list of wardens in the several counties:

"I am a truck builder and live on Twenty-first Street, Church Hill. I am willing to add my testimony regarding your great New Discovery Remedy and Quick Relief Oil. They have given me more relief in a shorter time than all other medicines I have tried. I had suffered for several years with chronic catarrh of the head and stomach disorders. I had been almost totally deaf for three years, and was growing worse every day. I had foul breath, nausea after meals, a continual wornout feeling, could not rest well, was constantly hawking and spitting up mucous. which would drop into my throat and stomach at night only to be vomited with my breakfast. I was losing even the senses of taste and smell, and found no relief until I began using Payne's New Discovery Remedies. I give them the credit for my cure, and take pleasure in commending these wonderful medicines to all fellow sufferers."

MAIL ORDERS: NOTICE—Price of Payne's New Discovery is $1.00 per bottle, three for $2.50, or six for $5.00. Payne's Quick Relief Oil is 25c per bottle, or five for $1.00.
